LIBERAL JUDAISM IN ENGLAND

By Ferdinand L. Isserman

Twenty-three years ago a small group of men, dissatisfied with the prevalent expression of Judaism in London, organized under the leadership of Claude G. Montefiore the Jewish Religious Union and thus began the movement for liberal Judaism in England. The organization had its stormy period, and not until 1911 had it prospered sufficiently in a material way to erect its own synagogue on Hill Street. In 1912 Rabbi Mattuck, a graduate of the Hebrew Union College, was called to minister as rabbi to the new congregation, and became the pioneer rabbi of Reform Judaism in England. The congregation grew in numbers and in power, and several weeks ago left its Hill Street home for a new synagogue structure completely modern in its equipment and having a seating capacity of 1,300. Liberal Judaism has permanently established itself in London. Of its work our contemporary, The Jewish Guardian of London, states: "Liberal Judaism has done something, a big thing, for the advancement and enhancement of the Jewish spirit. It has not only saved souls for Judaism which the Orthodox Congregations would have let go, but it has saved Judaism for the soul, at least for the mind of the subscriber." We congratulate Claude Montefiore and Rabbi Mattuck on their achievement. We cannot but deplore the action of the chief Rabbi in barring Rabbi Mattuck from the conference of Anglo-Saxon preachers. This much we can say, that the chief Rabbi would be welcome at the Central Conference of American Rabbis. That tolerance which we demand of others we must practice in our ranks. The chief Rabbi cannot but recognize, despite legitimate differences of opinion, that Rabbi Mattuck is doing Jewish religious work, and hence merits a place in the Anglo-Jewish conference. Liberal Judaism has come to stay in England. It has earned recognition because of its results. It included among its workers England's finest Jewish spirits, Montefiore and Abrahams, and its spiritual leader, Rabbi Mattuck, ought to be welcomed and encouraged by the chief Rabbi, and ought not to be excluded from the conference of Anglo-Jewish preachers. In America the Liberal and Orthodox rabbis have learnt to respect one another despite their differences of opinion. They have recognized that their bond of union far overshadows their petty theological and dogmatic differences. The chief Rabbi should emulate the example of his American confreres, and give recognition to Liberal Judaism.

UNDESIRABLES

A St. Louis Jewish journal makes a bitter attack upon undesirables in that community who are undertaking to interest themselves in certain Orthodox movements. The "Jewish Voice," the journal in question, asserts with refreshing boldness that heartless givers of charity, men in questionable businesses, and others on a like level, should not be permitted to occupy positions of honour in synagogues and other Jewish institutions that bulk prominently in the public eye. Pride is something that most of us as a Jewish group do not have enough of. Which is a truth even though the sentence ends perhaps incorrectly with a preposition. Of course, we find the same condition among our neighbours. Deacons of churches are frequently viewed with disfavour by the rank and file because of their heartless business dealings, their lack of human sympathy, their thoroughgoing, all-round hypocrisy, which vociferous amens and the passing of the collection plate one day out of seven hardly drapes them with sufficient piety to carry them through the remaining six days. When men worship the letter of religion instead of its spirit, then we have the type of undesirables to which the "Jewish Voice" refers. -Jewish Criterion.

LET THERE BE UNITY

Judging by reports, which have appeared in the Jewish and secular press, a number of Jewish delegations are preparing to present petitions before the seventh session of the Permanent Mandates Commission of the League of Nations, scheduled to open its sessions at Geneva next week. This is to be regretted. If there was ever a time when there was need for unity in the ranks of Israel it is now. This unity is required not only to help the needy and the helpless in Russia, in Poland and in other countries, but is needed in order successfully to discharge the obligation which the League of Nations has placed upon Jewry in its relationship to Palestine. It would be highly desirable if these delegations would get together and air their grievances among themselves, and come to some understanding. United they might achieve much; divided there is little that can be done. Let there be unity in Israel -Jewish Exponent.

In June the National Association of Manufacturers expressed itself in favour of the proposed system of registration of aliens in America. In October the American Federation of Labor, in the annual report of its executive council to the forty-fifth annual convention in Atlantic City, announced its emphatic opposition to the bill for the registration of aliens and stated that protests had been filed with Congress against the measure. "It is impossible to believe," said the report righteously, "that any American would sponsor such an un-American measure." This from the organization which is so strongly opposed to immigration and which is largely responsible for the erection of American bars against immigrants!

The report went on to examine the provisions of the bill in a denunciatory fashion. If passed the bill would provide for the registration and finger-printing of eight million aliens at $10 for the first time and $5 for every successive time at intervals of five years. Every alien would have to report every time he left his district and give full information about his movements. Keepers of hotels and lodging houses would have to report aliens in their employ and aliens among their guests within twelve hours after arrival. The police would have the power to search or raid places without warrants if immigrants were concerned. Shades of Czarist Russia and Imperialistic Germany, etc., etc.! Such a bill would be against the principles of American democracy and the spirit of the sacred constitution.

But there is a better reason for the concern of the American Federation of Labor, and skeptics may be pardoned for hunting "the nigger in the woodpile." The real reason is the fun the National Association of Manufacturers might get out of the proposed registration bill at the expense of the American Federation of Labor's power. The Federation is opposed to immigration for its own interests and to the registration bill, for the same, and any influence it exerts against the registration of aliens is not born of simple goodness of heart.

This oppressive measure would give to the capitalists power against labour unions having large immigrant membership such as those of workers in railroad camps, mines and textile mills. So, naturally, the American Federation of Labor is opposed and if the bill is defeated it will not be in the name of Americanism, but rather for the good and welfare of the Federation of Labor. But the aliens will be free of hounding and terrorization, and that is the main thing after all.

"There has been a persistent effort made to represent the Soviet System as rather Jewish than Russian. Jews are, of course, prominent politically, as they are in all successful and well-established societies. But neither the ideals nor the institutions of the system are Jewish, and such influence as Jews exercise under it is due to their intelligence and competence as public servants, not as elsewhere to their capacity for accumulating private wealth and controlling the machinery of capital and credit. On the international side of Communism, such as the Comintern, Jewish employes are numerous, as is natural enough from their special qualifications. But in the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs they have lost most of the prominence they held in 1920.

"In respect of their religion, Jews enjoy an equal tolerance with other religions, and, as will be described later, liberty in respect of religion is much greater not only than before the revolution but than in many European countries. For example, the Salvation Army is now free to work there." From the official report of the British Trades Union Delegation to Russia, published by the Trades Union Congress General Council, London.

That was a good show put on by Toronto Hadassah last week in the Arena. The Hebrew University, beautifully reproduced, looked down on the biggest spectacle ever staged by a Jewish organization in this city. There were hundreds of people in the cast, singing, dancing or forming a pattern of gorgeous colour, some of them non-Jewish performers. Many of the features will be remembered pleasantly, but especially the ecstatic "Feast of the Chassidim," a picture made by bearded men in black, sitting about a long table bright with candle light, and lustily singing religious songs. This number was good enough for Balieff's Chauve Souris, and the entire performance was a tribute to the ability of the women in the Zionist organization. Such big gatherings as witnessed the pageant are commendable aside from the cause sponsored, for, every time one is held, it tends to bring together and strengthen the various Jewish groups as one piece. It demonstrates what can be done in this direction and for a cause when an organization works hard and keeps its various units in harmony.

Hadassah Gives Pageant

Not in the history of Toronto's Jewish community has such a spectacle been staged as the Hadassah Historical Pageant held at the Arena Gardens Thursday last.

With the vivid variance of an Oriental bazaar, the pageant sought to express the spirit motivating the history of the Jew. The picture which unfolded before the audience was a cosmopolitan one – colours, dances, songs, all possessing a catholicity in range. The pageant opened with the house in darkness. "Kol Nidrei" was sung by Irving Levine, taking the part of the "Spirit of Judaism." Then the stage was lighted, revealing the "Spirit of Hadassah," portrayed by Miss Dorothy Freiman, of Ottawa, on a throne. Following a dance, the populace entered, preceded by a choir clad in white. To the accompaniment of solemn Jewish music, the "Spirit of Judaism" mounted and took his place on the throne beside the "Spirit of Hadassah."

While the populace, a restless surge of colour, looked on, a number of dances followed one another, an Egyptian dance the dance of the cymbals, and several ballet dances, Miss Hilda Eckler as leader. The music was provided by the Queen's Own Band.

There was a dance by some diminutive performers, accompanying the dropping of a coin into a large National Fund box on the stage. This was expressive of the Sabbath eve custom of the Jewish housewife, who welcomes the day of rest by making a contribution to the Fund whose purpose is the purchase of lands in Palestine. Miss Myra Solway, who took this part represented the "Spirit of Redemption."

The choral work of the production was under the direction of C. H. Campion-Smith, with male voices from the Mendelssohn choir. In charge of the dances was S. Titchener Smith. Contributory to the programme were numbers supplied by the Kiwanis Bohemian Gipsies, and Paul Halme's Finnish dancers. Following the pageant the floor was thrown open to dancing.

The entertainment was under the auspices of Hadassah although all sections of the Jewish community co-operated. It was the first of a series of such enterprises for funds for work in Palestine.

Proceeds go to the building of a tuberculin sanatorium in Safed, Palestine, and to the maintenance of medical health work in the Holy Land.

FROM THE WELLS OF TALMUD

By Rabbi S. Herschorn of Montreal

1. Lower thy seat two or three rows from the place you intend to occupy. For it is better thou shalt be told to ascend than to descend.

2. It is easier to rule the whole world than to associate and discuss with hypocrites.

3. If some of thy neighbours praise and others reprimand thee, love the latter and hate the former, for the latter do more good to you than the former.

4. The punishment of a liar is that even when he tells the truth he is not believed.

5. Seven things mark the sage. The wise man does not speak before those who surpass him in wisdom and years, he does not interrupt another in his speech; he is not hasty in answering; he does not ask questions rashly; asks with propriety and to the point; speaks first upon the matter first in order, and last upon the last. If he does not understand the matter under discussion he confesses, "I do not understand it"; and admits it when he has been convinced. The opposite of these things mark the clod.

The Jewish Hospital Association of Buffalo held a special meeting at the Statler to consider action on changing the name of the organization. After considerable discussion the members decided to table a resolution offered by the board of directors which provided that the name of the association be changed to the Boulevard Hospital of Buffalo.

A committee of seven was appointed by Fred Ullman, chairman, to select a name which has Jewish significance. The committee was directed to report to the board of directors, which in turn will present the name selected for final action at the annual meeting of the association to be held in about three weeks. The committee included Rabbi Joseph L. Fink, Rabbi M. M. Eichler, J. L. Davis, D. R. Coplon, Frank L. Cohen, Arthur Victor, August Kaiser and I. S. Given. Rabbi Fink and Rabbi Eichler spoke briefly in defence of a name for the hospital which carried Jewish significance. They declared that while the hospital would be non-sectarian in offering its facilities for the relief of suffering, it would be built and supported mainly by Buffalo Jews and should therefore be named accordingly.

(Can you help this girl? If so, her name and address will be furnished upon request to the CANADIAN JEWISH REVIEW.)

Editor, Canadian Jewish Review.

You will probably be surprised at this letter, but I beg you not to deposit it in the waste paper basket until you have read it through. I do not know whether you are the one I should send this to or not, but I am taking a chance and I do hope that this falls in good hands, because I am desperate.

I am an art student and I have gone through a three-year course in art and education. I thought that when I had this knowledge that I would be able to get work. I have been told that I have talent and ability, but I can't get work. I have looked and hunted for over a year and, oh, how hopeless it all seems. I have tried everywhere in Toronto, but with the same story over and over. Have you any experience? is all I hear. Oh, why don't they give a person a chance to become experienced? Please, can't you do anything for me? Can you tell me where to go, perhaps you know some one who may be interested. I had such high hopes of being an artist for the Jewish people. I have been doing work such as signs and posters, but of what good, if I have work for a week and then rest for months? My father is a poor working man. He tries his best for me. He would send me to the States, but he can't afford it. Do all the young people who wish to get along in the world have to run out of Canada to the States? Please, if you know of any one that needs an art student, tell them of me. I can do almost any kind of art work and I am willing to learn what I do not know. Life seems so hopeless. If I don't get something soon I am sure to do something desperate. How I hope that you may be able to help me.

It naturally takes a little longer and costs a little more but it leaves the hair in a beautiful soft and somewhat permanent wave. The Steam marcel will take at least three-quarters of an hour. Make your appointments early.

This is the season that your hair needs a specialist who thoroughly understands the cause of falling hair and how to remove, not only the external trouble but to remove the cause of the trouble from the human system. As Mr. Pember has thoroughly studied the human system from the hair standpoint there is nothing that you might require that cannot be greatly benefited by his treatment.

This is the House with the unrivalled reputation for exclusive hair goods productions. Write for catalogues for the most natural and durable goods of its kind in the world.

We are the exclusive distributing agents for Inecto Rapid. The quickest and cleanest and the most true to nature of all hair tints. The price by mail is $3.25, double size $5.50 When ordering send sample of hair.

one hour and twenty-two and one-half seconds for each.

This display of speed saved the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company several thousand dollars. For due to arrangements with the Naval Academy any delay in production which might have interfered with the graduation exercises and the famous "June Week" celebration at Annapolis, would have cost more money that would be needed to produce two other pictures. This remarkable feature will be supplemented with unusual added attractions.

YOUR NEXT SUMMER'S TOUR

Within the past few years interest in travel has constantly been increasing, and personally conducted tours have become very popular. It is generally recognized that travel is a wonderful educator, and while these tours are not confined to teachers in any way, the teaching fraternities more than any other class seem to recognize their advantages.

During the season just past, Mr. A. E. Bryson, principal of Silverthorn School, Toronto, and Mr. Martin Kerr, principal of Earl Kitchener School, Hamilton, conducted a 6,000-mile tour across Canada by the Canadian National Railways, visiting important cities in Western Canada, Jasper National Park, and Pacific Coast points, returning through the United States, visiting Yellowstone National Park, Rocky Mountain Park, Salt Lake City, Denver, etc. Those who joined in this trip were so abundantly satisfied with this matchless tour that the promoters have already decided to repeat it next year with some added attractions.

Anyone interested should make a note of this trip now, and plan to take "The Trip of a Life Time."

Radio Carries the Living Voice of Grand Opera Stars

(Special Despatch to The Globe)

New York, Sept. 20.—Twenty-five of the world's leading opera and other musical stars have just signed contracts to sing to radio audiences in the fall and winter, when they will take part in a series of weekly Sunday night concerts to be broadcast by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company's radio station WEAF.

Will you hear these wonderful programmes as clearly and distinctly as though the singers were in your home? You can at least get the best out of your Radio Set by equipping it with fresh, powerful Eveready Radio Batteries.

You could not hear one of these Stars in a concert recital for the cost of one "B" Battery. But you can enjoy them all by tuning in one of these stations every Sunday evening. Surely an investment in new Eveready Radio Batteries is worth while, now!

Radio Dealers everywhere sell Eveready Radio Batteries.

"Why I Should Vote Conservative"

Keep out the Goods that steal your Job!

Our workers should not be asked to compete against the sweat shop, the child labor and the long hour day of the foreign worker, as they are expected to do under Mr. King's Low Tariff Policy.

Our workers' standard of living must be lowered under Mr. King's Low Tariff Policy.

Our workers must go jobless in Canada or emigrate to the United States under Mr. Kings' Low Tariff Policy.

Our workers' wives and children must often go hungry under Mr. King's Low Tariff Policy.

Organized Labor cannot make progress with half empty factories running half-time as they are under Mr. King's Low Tariff Policy.

Organized Labor makes its best gains when factories are running full-time and looking for workers, as they will be under a PROTECTIVE TARIFF POLICY.
